Lost in the forest now,
I need to find a new way home.
And as long as my mouth's closed,
there will be no script to unfold.

Buy the life that you want and then sell it.
There must be an easier way through this.
I just feel like I've been falling forever.

A snake can't smell what isn't there.
In the unmoving air, we both just sat and stared
Hoping the curtain would soon close,
Telling us all it's ok to go home.

Buy the life that you want and then sell it.
There must be an easier way through this.
I just feel like I've been falling forever.

You can take them home in body bags.
You can take them home in body bags.
I need to catch myself before I hit the ground.

There must be an easier way through this.
I just feel like I've been falling forever.
