Wait for me by my dying chair.
Tell God and the Devil meet me there.
They can use my soul as a battle ground,
But until then, they can leave me out.

There is no wrong, no right
But there's a million constellations in the sky tonight.
Take me down when you're feeling low.
There will never be a place with you that I won't go.
Let's let them say we're crazy.
We may never know.

Wait for me by your anywhere,
And in a while I will meet you there.
And if it hurts, least we're feeling now.
Least if we feel then we live somehow.

There is no wrong, no right
But there's a million constellations in the sky tonight.
Take me down when you're feeling low.
There will never be a place with you that I won't go.
Let's let them say we're crazy.
We may never know.
