

Aaron Sprinkle "I Wish I Were You"

Visit "I Wish I Were You" on MotoLyrics.com

In these recent years I have noticed that your face has slightly changed

In this season of the bitter pill that pulled your heart
away

In the daylight when it hits you straight on see the lines in your face have begun

When I tell you that you're beautiful like a second hand that stopped

You remind me of a waterfall that turned the earth to mud

In this season of the bitter pill that pulled your heart
away

Feel it coming in again

All that you've known up till now you could trade for this thought I'm singing about
That now and again I'll play the fool
but I love you so much I wish I were you

All that you've known up till now
You could trade for this thought i'm singing about
That now and again I'll play the fool
But I love you so much I wish I were you

Visit Aaron Sprinkle page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.