I never found out why you walked away
And never said, goodbye
But now that I see you
I'm torn inside, but I've still got my pride

I understand
That some things are better left unsaid
I'm afraid of the truth
But what can I do if I still want you

If we could start over again
I know if we try, our love could be stronger
If we could start over again
I'm sure, woah that we'd never have to let go

For so many years now
I've held inside things I meant to say
But faced with the past now I realize
I can't let that stand in our way

I never knew
That a love so strong would never fade
But what can we do if I still want you
And you want me too

If we could start over again
I know if we try our love could be stronger
If we could start over again
I'm sure, woah that we'd never have to let go

How can we walk away
From something that was once so strong
Have we the strength to say, "We're wrong"

If we could start over again
(We could start over again)
I know if we try our love could be stronger
If we could start over again
I'm sure, woah that we'd never have to let go

If we could start over again
(We could start over again)

I know, our love could be stronger
If we could start over again
I'm sure, woah, we'd never have to let go

We could be so close

If we could start over again
I know if we try our love could be stronger
If we could start over again
I'm sure, woah, we'd never have to let go

I know, I know, I know
