The act of decomposition started under intense offensive stech of slow decay delicious necrotic tissues of mutilated body parts maggot infestation begin their life cycle worms emerging from the eggs 8 hours after the gruesome murder warm temperature shorten the decay process ingested putrid mass of dead flesh comsuming the dead tissues of unrecognized rotten face devouring the foreskin breathing anterior spiracles allows the colony 24 hour feeding the dead mass segmented body, large salivary glands and endless urge to kill secreting digestive enzymes and spreading putrefying bacteria decomposition of the body and the recycling of nutrients through the oxidation of elements breaking down complex molecules into their constituent elements through respiration or fermentation maggot masses
