spaceship is on fire
snake in your spacesuit ground control has all gone home they said they can replace you this shuttle is a piece of shit like half the buttons work and all the lights and indicators just plain indecipherable i suspect they laugh at this tin coffin even as they feign applause when pushing me towards the horizon find a new star, stilnaut rjyan i can't believe i once believed that they believed in me i feel another pull that's stronger than that of all the stars behind me i'm homesick for a home i know i'm never welcome back to so i watch it shrink as oxygen leaks slowly from my capsule

this vessel isn't big enough to be my anger's weapon if it was i'd rain its flaming wreckage down on all their heads in passing through the atmosphere with mean disintegration they would notice my revenge just more humiliation clutching my umbilical and strangled by my halo the ten thousand stars behind my pulling on a flightless angel the one thin thread that's been holding this boy to the earth i will break it and scatter all the constellations

ground control has all gone home
