Her last lonely teardrop fell
Along about nine o'clock
His memory was history
Before she hit the parking lot

She busted through them swingin' doors
Sashaying to and fro
She's got a new attitude, yes, she's over that dude
And she wants the world to know

That she feels like a brand new man tonight
She didn't come in here to hang her head and cry
She's through throwing good love away
On some boy that don't treat her right
And she feels like a brand new man tonight

Just like a kid in a candy store
She's checking out the merchandise
But she wants to find the keeping kind
Who will keep her satisfied

And he's gotta be strong, gotta be tough
And he's gotta have a tender touch
So if you fit the bill, brother, don't sit still Come on, step right up

'Cause she feels like a brand new man tonight
She didn't come in here to hang her head and cry
She's through throwing good love away
On some boy that don't treat her right
And she feels like a brand new man tonight

Oh yes, she feels like a brand new man tonight
She didn't come in here to hang her head and cry, cry, cry
She's through throwin' good love away
On some boy that don't treat her right
Yes, she feels like a brand new man tonight
I said she feels like a brand new man tonight
