All of the secrets
That cover the earth
Bury the fear
That's been here since our birth
And it finds you
The loneliness reminds you

That when you were young
You were nobody's girl
He spun you round
And he centered your world
In the final analysis
You know he's the setting sun
The final one

Headlights sweep the drapes
Feet shuffle leaves
And jangle keys
He's home again

The other boys can't read your mind
The other boys don't ring your line
The other boys don't understand
When you kiss another man

Headlights sweep the drapes
Feet shuffle leaves
And jangle keys
He's home again

Each faded memory's a life to itself
Each faded life is an urn on a shelf
And you call me
No need to be lonely

Headlights sweep the drapes
Feet shuffle leaves
And jangle keys
I'm home again
