There you go vanishing again
Cause silence drives a happy heart insane
You never stay to talk it out
And never take the blame

You could try to love me if you lied
Or you could shut your cell phone off and hide
But if love has lost it's luster
Do you think that you could muster
A goodbye?

Bite my lip apart and taste the blood
Drive my car around your neighborhood
I thought we still had something left
That still was pretty good

You could try to love me if you lied
Or you could turn your cell phone off and hide
But if love has lost it's luster
Do you think that you could muster
A goodbye?

You could try to love me if you lied
Or you could turn your cell phone off and hide
But for all your tears and bluster
Well, you'd think that you could muster
One goodbye

Now text it to me, baby
Text it to me, darling
"goodbye"
