When off to work i went so that we could pay the rent you came without me when he knocked on our door all your clothes were on the floor and then you came without me

we were doing fine
just killing precious time until you wanted more than i could be

now that more is less
may i just suggest
a prayer
that we divide like the red sea

drinking here alone got your mother on the phone and all this blame comes at me but the truth, it always bends and so you got to all our friends and now they all attack me

since you set me free i am constantly drowning in the red sea
