Well even in the light of day
We somehow slipped away
Into the city down by the lake.
And just beyond the crowded streets
We found a place to meet
Where the grass was greener
And how we did sing beneath our God.

(Chorus)

And the measure of that place
Was the pleasure on your face
As the music starts to rise.
And the sun did fall
But when the melody was young
Until the singers all were sung
The Maker of the skies
Well He just smiled on.

And the move was fine.

Beneath the mountain city walls
It was a picture of us all
And our hearts were laughing
As the band did play.
Until the music took our feet
To the motion of the street
This grass was bluer
And how we did dance
On the yellow lines.

(Chorus)

When the darkness finally fell
The mountains cast their spell
And we were together
With our eyes upheld
To the passion in the sky
Our God and country light
It's an endless matter.
And how we did shine,
How we did shine beneath that light.

Beneath that light
Beneath that night.

(Chorus)
