Everyday heros and Everyday lives
Do what they must just to survive
They never make the front page news
But heaven knows they pay their dues
You can see the Little Victories shining in their eyes

CH: They don't need fortune and they don't need fame
They are already winners if they're in the game
They don't need our pity or our sympathy
They get all they need from Little Victories

A single mothers' wage barely gets them through
But they do all the things other families do
And the man that's 84 years old
Who learned to cook when his wife passed on Discovering things inside they never knew

CH They don't need fortune and they don't fame
They're already winners if they're in the game
They don't need our pity or our Sympathy
They get all they need from Little Victories

They're in you, they're in me
They're the only of the bundle little victories

Chorus twice
