Touching your skin makes me happy, when I feel it but not after. Because it makes my heart go crazy because it's just how far we'll go. I can't be with you and not be one with you, there is no half way I can't be me without you. I'll take you away to a far away sea, where I can love you because I can't love you here. It's forbidden but I need you, I know it's wrong but it's real, I admit this has gone too far away. Will you let me? I could let you touch my face and kiss me slowly. But think of all the hearts that we'd be breaking, by giving ours what they need? I can't be with you and not be one with you, there is no half way. I can't be me without you. I'll take you away to a far away sea, where I can love you because I can't love you here. It's forbidden but I need you, I know it's wrong but it's real, I admit this has gone too far away. Will you let me? I'll flee this town I can't be here with you and I don't think that you'll come to. Stop begging me to stay here and be one with you. I can't avoid their eyes. I can't be near you and not be one with you, there is no half way I can't be me without you. I'll take you away to a far away sea, where I can love you because I can't love you here. It's forbidden but I need you, I know it's wrong but it's real, I admit this has gone too far away. Will you let me? You take me driving to the ferris wheel and something changes, this kiss is real. Your hands assure me, that your arms are stronger than their eyes. Where I can love you. It's forbidden but I need you, I know it's wrong but it's real, I admit this has gone too far away. Will you let me?
