I still think about us in the rush that we felt
With the rag top down and the radio blasting
You were riding shotgun in nothing but a bikini and a seat belt
Looking better than the law should have been allowing, oh mercy

We hit the corners going 90
Love had blindly fallen head over heels over you
Every feeling that we felt
Was a feeling that felt brand new

And you looked just like an angel
With that cross on your necklace
You were young, I was wild
We were reckless

We'd drive on down to the river
Burnin up those hot summer nights
Laughing at the cowboys getting crazy
Picking fights but it wasn't funny

When that deputy caught you and me
Steaming up those windows
And how your daddy never found out about it
Honey, heaven only knows

We hit the corners going 90
Love had blindly fallen head over heels over you
Every feeling that we felt
Was a feeling that felt brand new

And you looked just like an angel
With that cross on your necklace
You were young, I was wild
We were reckless, oh yeah

I looked into your eyes
And I promised you forever
And I believed you without my heart
I just didn't know any better

Getting over you took years
How to spot those tears I cried
I'd do it all over again
All for the thrill of the ride

Hit the corners going 90
Love had blindly fallen head over heels over you
Every feeling that we felt
Was a feeling that felt brand new

And you looked just like an angel
With that cross on your necklace
You were young, I was wild
We were reckless
Young, wild and reckless
