I get dressed up in my winter clothes
And step outside to look at the roses
But they're all covered in the morning snow

Just open your heart
And the world will carry you home tonight
It will

I get dressed up in my summer clothes
And step outside to look at the roses
But they're all covered in their sharper thorns

Just open your eyes
And the world will follow you home tonight
It will

Let's put on our rain coats
And trench ourselves in english weather
Just to know we're free
We'll bury our heads down beneath the
So soon

But please
Oh, now take this broken heart of mine
It's the only beat that I have left
Just pulsing through this empty chest
And I don't know where I should begin

I get dressed up in my autumn clothes
And step out side to pick up the leaves in
I can not believe the whole year has gone

I open my arms to embrace you
It's time to go right back to the start

Let's put on our rain coats
And trench ourselves in english weather
Just to know we're free
We'll bury our heads down beneath the
So soon

But please

Oh, now take this broken heart of mine
It's the only beat that I have left
Just pulsing through this empty chest
And I don't know where I should begin
