Come from the suburbs into the city
They say you can make it if you're young and you're pretty Dreams must get tall, ain't it a pity
But they say you can make it if you're young and you're pretty

So I sit inside my desperate room Waiting for a band to play
And I wonder what is left to lose Where is anyone, anyway

Outside the neon, face from exhaustion Screaming with promises of what's inside but nobody's watching
I go for the money, my wallet's a liar
Nothing inside 'cause the world is on fire

So I give them that old routine
'Cause no one listens, anyway
When I fight for what it means God, I wish I had someone here today

So I give them that old routine
'Cause no one listens, anyway
Lord, I fight for what it means
God, I wish I had someone here today

Come from the suburbs into the city
They say you can make it if you're young and you're
pretty
Come from the sidelines into the city God, they say you can make it if you're young and you're pretty

Well, they say you can make it if you're young and
you're pretty
Oh, they say you can make it if you're young and you're pretty
Yeah, they say you can make it if you're young and you're pretty
Oh, they say you can make it

Well, they say you can make it if you're young and
you're pretty
They say you can make it if you're young and you're
pretty
They say you can make it if you're young and you're pretty
They say
