See her every morning and I give myself a warning that it's time to speak but when she passes by I just cannot find the words and I feel so weak here she comes walking by again this time I'm not gonna hesitate hold my breath and I count to ten I must ask her now I'm gonna wander on over before the day gets older.

Hey
what's your name
what's your name
what's the game that you're playing is it real can I deal if I play can I stay
what's your name.
What's your game.
What's your name.

I'm really glad you asked me I've been hoping that you would soon she answered me she told me that she'd seen me every morning and had fallen in love with me.
All these weeks she's been so shy much too scared to give me the eye but she was thinking just the same she must ask me now she's gonna wander on over before the day gets older.
