Nocturnal trips within my head
Lying in my bed just feeling warm and safe
Breathing deeply and calm
Look at me now what I have become
A stranger denying my origin
A wanderer without a destination
I close my eyes and before me I see
Constellations of life
There was a time when I was afraid
To fall asleep
I close my eyes and before me I see
Constellation is here
I have no reasons to believe
It's a sign for me to see
I dream away
Wishing I was home
Surrender myself to the night

An experience of fright
Shadows, tension left alone
Chased by horror, running away
Closening the cluster where I used to live
No matter how far away
I'll always bridge the distance
And return
I close my eyes and before me I see
Constellations of life
There was a time when I was afraid
To fall asleep
I close my eyes and before me I see
Constellation is here
I have no reasons to believe
It's a sign for me to see
