Since I stood you on your head and told you you don't Know the way I feel and you don't see the things I see.
Well, you've been walking home alone and shaking Weightless like a sparrow bone.
You know my mind is like water and I'm silver like eels
And I am better left all alone.
But water's a lie and I am a liar can you see this yet?
I was born and bred hard as stone smooth like kerosene
Aching and soaking wet.
Gasoline night time, silver eyes promise you thousands of
Sour lies, grey like eels.
Since I stood you on your head and told you, you don't Know the way I feel and you don't see the things I see.
Well I've been watching your eyes for some sign of Betrayal, a certain courage I thought you might find, a Little curl of your lips, a little shudder of a wing a Little screaming to keep me in line.
