

Chris Keator

"Home"

Visit "Home" on MotoLyrics.com

He sees his reflection behind a broken smile
He misses her laghter, he's been alone now for a while He picked up her red dress, the only one that he still saved
Oh, and she never looked so beautiful to him
Then she did in those last few days

He says I know
Time will heal all strife and I will be alright
As long as I breathe I will sing Halelujah
And I'm thankful for the time I know you made her mine
But she's gone back to you
And if she's listening tell her I will be home soon

His pen hits the paper, he writes a note to place atop the stone
He tells her he loves her, and says its hard for him to be alone
I know you're in Heaven
You save a place for me as you worship at his feet
Oh, and I can't wait to sing to our glorious King
The next time that we both shall meet

Because I know
Time will heal all strife and I will be alright
As long as I breathe I will sing Halelujah
And I'm thankful for the time I know you made her mine
But she's gone back to you
And if she's listening tell her I will be home soon

Visit Chris Keator page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.