You scratched all your suffering
You tattooed the scars
So no one sees, you reckoning
What was a lifetime ago

You let go of your truest friends
To hold on to your high
But no one knows, how slow it goes
When you're falling down from the sky

There are secrets that the lonely know (only the lonely can know)
You always have yourself to talk to, no matter where you go

Every time you go, you go for so long
And I hope you know I, I was here all along
Every time you go, you go for so long
And I hope you know I, I was here all along
I was here all along

You can't sleep if you're shivering
With sand in your shoes
But no one saw, you washed ashore
When you landed here at my door

You lost almost everything
Except for the stars
So let's go see, them shimmering Cause this is now where you are

There are secrets that the lonely know (only the lonely
can know)
You always have yourself to talk to, no matter where
you go

Every time you go, you go for so long
And I hope you know I, I was here all along
Every time you go, you go for so long
And I hope you know I, I was here all along
(All along)

I was here all along
(I was here all along)
