Whatever happened to human rights in the land of free, in the land of might at the end of the till an old man is filling up a paper bag

'cause whatever age you're at some societies still make you fight no one there to support your sunset age don't bring no more respect how can you still believe that you can save the world you'd need humanity show us some, now can you

in the land of fear in the land of might a black man hails a cab new york city is getting hot but not one will stop to pick him as if his colour were a sin and maybe i sound like some 60s' folk singer's come back singing human love is so na've but have we learned a single thing
