I have to tell you about this little man who thought he could do anything he put in his mind but then he found a little stumbling bloc in sight and he forgot his name and hers and just went riding back poor little girl, i was willing to be another mistress to you but there was someone outside of me i couldn't hold on to

if the sea covers my tracks
i'll find a way to fly
and if the wind blows my steps

the way home will just be next

so when i cry
you have to see beyond the tears and see what's inside what i can't sing
