Everyone's focuses around this everything so divine i have confusions about it i dont know what i'll find still im hoping i will learn to release my mind

faces are so unfamiliar are they this winter kind misunderstanding intensions untrue is left behind still im hoping i will learn to release my mind
