You're taking vitamins with vodka
& cryin' a little less each day
You've finally got the curtains open
To let a little light your way

You're finally pickin' up the phone
& talking more about your pain
Uncertainty's led to misery
Until the blindfold slipped away

You can't fall farther when you're down
Your feet are stuck in the hole in the ground
Lies seem to have dug it a little deeper
Now scared you're scratching all around

You've found security with strangers
They can't get too close & it's safe
You've tried again to pop the surface
To let a little truth your way

You can't define a friend or foe
No help from anyone you know
Misery's left upon the shelf
When you don't want to know yourself

You can't fall farther when you're down
Your feet are stuck in the hole in the ground
Lies seem to have dug it a little deeper
You've got to pull yourself out
You've got to pull yourself out
You've got to pull yourself out

You can't fall farther when you're down
Your feet are stuck in the hole in the ground
Lies seem to have dug it a little deeper

You can't fall farther when you're down
Your feet are stuck in the hole in the ground
Lies seem to have dug it a little deeper
Lies seem to have dug it a little deeper

Lies seem to have dug it a little deeper

Lies seem to have dug it a little deeper
Lies seem to have dug it a little deeper
