Got a wife and two kids, all gathered around

A twenty-pound turkey, snow on the ground

Who says there ain't no Santa Claus

Eric wants a glove, he tears into a box

His eyes are wide with wonder,

I sit back and watch

Who says there ain't no Santa Claus

I haven't heard a single reindeer running on my roof

I just look into my children's eyes and there I see my proof

And could it be that jolly old man riding in his sleigh

Is really just the kid in us on every Christmas Day

Who says there's no Santa Claus

Molly gets a doll, Momma's camera clicks

Guess we all get the puppy, he's getting in his licks

Who says there ain't no Santa Claus

I'm trying to read a card in crooked red and blue

Only part that really matters is "Daddy, we love you"

Who says there ain't no Santa Claus

I haven't heard a single reindeer running on my roof

I just look into my children's eyes and there I see my proof

And could it be that jolly old man riding in his sleigh
Is really just the kid in us on every Christmas Day
Who says there's no Santa Claus
Hey, I've heard there ain't no Santa Claus
But I know there's got to be a Santa Claus
