

Bella Morte

"An Enemy Without"

Visit "An Enemy Without" on MotoLyrics.com

Another hour gone
I've seen as those before
My thoughts are there with you
Although I know for sure yours are alone

I saw it in your eyes
As the sea rose up to drown the sky for the light was lost
The dreams that breathe this air are suffocating

You have taken a part of me
There's nothing more to say
You have become now the enemy
All you touch you betray

Another hour gone
I cannot count the days
At the eleventh chime, I know that the twelve will not be far away
Far down beneath the dust that has settled on this rusted cross
I'm still reaching out and holding onto stars that long since burned out

You have taken a part of me
There's nothing more to say
You have become now the enemy
All you touch you betray

You have taken a part of me
There's nothing more to say
You have become now the enemy
All you touch you will betray

Where were you?
Where were you when everything was falling down?
Where were you?
Where were you when everything was dying?

