Well I've never been accused of being a good man
And the roads I've walked you wouldn't want to see
And I don't look to God to find forgiveness
For a demon walks this lonely road with me

I can't find now, a better way
If I can't find now, the light of day

Well I once knew love when I was just a young man
And this girl became the whole damned world to me
But in my devil's eyes a lie was hidden
And so I spilt her blood while she lay there asleep

I can't find now, a better way
If I can't find now, the light of day

The rising tide brings the end of life now
As the rising tide brings the end of a day (x2)

Well if I've killed once I've killed a hundred times
But I'd guess that most of them deserved their fate
Some nights I swear that I can hear the dead ones screaming
From far below the waters black and deep

As the rising tide brings the end of a day (x3)
