Ar chonnlaigh ghlais an Fhoghmuir
 A stáirín gur dhearc má uaim
 Ba deas do chos i mbráig
 'Sba rá-dheas do leagan siubhail.
 Do ghruaidh ar dhath na rása
 'Sdo chárna bhá fighte dláith
 Monuar gan sinn 'Áir bpásadh
 Ná'r bárd luinge 'tríall 'un siubhail.

Tá buachaill na h-áite seo
 A' gartha 'gus ag áirghe teann
 Is lucht na gcocháin áird
 A' deáinamh fáruis do mo chailín donn
 Dá ngluaiseadh rá na Spáinne
 Thar síile 's a shláighe cruinn
 Bhráighfinn fáar is fáisach
 'S bháinn ar áimh le mo chailín donn.

Ceannacht buaibh ar aontaigh'
 Dá mbánn agus mo chailín donn
 Gluais is tar a cháad-searc
 Ná go dtáidh muid thar Ghaoth-Bearra 'nonn
 Go sgartar á n-a cháile
 Báir na gcraobh 's an eala á tuinn
 Ná sgarfar sin á cháile
 'S níl ach baois dá bhá chur 'n mur gcionn.

English to the Above:

On the green stubble-fields of Autumn
 I saw you, my sweetheart.
 Nice were your feet in shoes
 And wonderful your nimble gait.
 Your two cheeks the color of roses
 And your ringlets tightly plaited
 Alas that we're not married
 Or on board ship sailing away

The boys around here are
 Laughing and getting bold
 And the people of the high straw?
 Are making ?? of my brown girl
 If the King of Spain would Go abroad with his assembled men

I would flatten grass and rank grass
And I would be with my brown girl

Buying cows at the fair
If I were ? and my brown girl
Go and come first love
Until we go over to Gaoth-Bearra
Until we separate from each other
The tops of the branches and the swan from the waves
That won't separate us
And it's only folly for you to put it ??

I wrote a letter
To my sweetheart and a sharp complaint
She sent it back to me
That her heart was inside me.
Like the sweetest swan?
Finer than silk or bird feathers
Heavy is my sigh
When I think of being apart from her.

What I heard on Sunday
As conversation among the women
That she was going to be married
To a young man from the place.
Sweetheart take my advice
And this Autumn stay as you are
And don't tell anyone, my love,
That you are my love.
