ThÃos cois na trÃi domh, in ndoimhneacht na h-oÃche
 An saol mhor ina gcodhladh, 's mise liom fÃ©in Na h-Ã©anacha mara ag scairtigh go lÃ©anmhar CosÃ©il le h-anamnacha bochta i bpÃ©in.
 IomlÃin gealaÃ 's iomlÃin rabharta
 Aoibhneas 's ciÃ©ineas, 's Ãilleacht sa domhain
 CrÃ³nÃin na fairrige ag dul siar ar mo chluasa
 Bog-cheol an uisce ag sileadh san abhainn.
 Istigh ar na h-inseÃiin tÃi sean-reilig bheannaithe
 An Ãiit inar mhaireadh naoimh san aimsir fadÃ³
 TÃi daoine istigh ann ag chaith seal go h-aerach NÃ shiÃ©lfaidh siad thar fÃin chladaigh nÃos mÃ³.
 Bhuail uaigneas m'intÃann 's mÃ© ag amharc ar an reilig
 'S mÃ© ag meadhradh ar dhaoine istigh ann ina luÃ
 Fir a's mnÃi Ã³ga, seandaoine 's pÃiistÃ
 Muintir mo mhuintir 's cairde mo chroÃ.
 TÃi na coiligh ag glaoch 's na rÃ©alta ag bÃinÃ©
 TÃi an ghealach ina luÃ 's nÃ fada go lÃi
 SIÃin agat anois a shean-reilig bheannaithe
 'S na daoine a shiÃ©lfadh liom sÃos cois na trÃi.
 English Translation From Jason Carns
 Down by the beach, in the deep of night
 The big world is sleeping and I am alone
 The sea-birds are calling sorrowfully
 Like poor souls in pain
 Total purity and total abundance (?)
 Bliss and calmness and beauty in the world
 The murmur of the sea going into my ears
 The soft song of the water flowing in the river.
 Above on the headland* there is a blessed old cemetery
 The place in which saints lived in times long ago
 There are people within spending a while carefree
 They will not walk round on the shore any more.
 Loneliness strikes my spirits as I look at the cemetery
 And I'm thinking about the people in there sleeping
 Men and young women, old people and children
 People of my people and friends of my heart.
 The cocks are crowing and the stars are fading
 The moon is setting and it's not long until day

Goodbye now blessed old cemetery
And to the people who walked with me down by the beach.
(Above...)* A rough translation. Couldn't find the word
"inseÃiin", but think it means something like this.
