The buildings reach up to the sky

The traffic thunders on the busy street

Even slips beneath my feet

I walk alone & wonder, Who am I?

I close my eyes & I can fly

& I escape from all this wordly strife

Restricted by routine of life

But still I still can't discover, who am I?

(x2):

I long to wake up in the morning & find everything has changed

& all the people that I meet don't wear a frown

But every day is just the same: I'm chasing rainbows in the rain

All the dreams that I believe in let me down

Maybe I'm reaching far too high

For I have something else entirely free

The love of someone close to me

Unfettered by the world that hurries by

To question such good fortune, Who am I?
