Stop the music, play the song We'll dance together all night long
The spotlight glows, somehow it knows,
That there's something about us
Something about us

People smile when they walk by There's too much magic to deny A fool can see we're meant to be 'cause there's something about us,
something about us

The words on every poet's tongue
Every love song ever sung
about us, it's about us
From Romeo and Juliet, to plays they haven't written yet It's old and new, it's a classic tale of two of our perfectly perfect love

You can see it in our ways in how we spend our nights and days A crazy laugh, a photograph There's just something about
something about us

The words on every poet's tongue
Every love song ever sung
about us, it's about us
From Romeo and Juliet,
to plays they haven't written yet
It's old and new, it's a classic tale of two
of our perfectly perfect love

So stop the music, play the song
And we'll dance together all night long We'll reminisce of moments like this Cause there's something about us
something about us
yes, there something about us...
