24C don't believe in God
But he always prays when a thing takes off
And the grandma that is next to Watches the window

And 3B's got her headphones on Still not used to her daddy being gone
She gets to see him every 3 months
For a weekend

Just people in planes

17 A's in a exit row
Waiting for his Jack and coke to show
He's just wishing he wouldn't have Settled so fast in college

And I'm over here in the middle seat
Watching the world but half asleep
Wondering why there's never movies
On the ones I'm on

And it occurs to me
Maybe I've got too much time to think
But it helps to be Reminded how we're

Just people in planes
When it comes down to it
We're side by side, on the same ride
There's not a whole lotta difference

At the end of the day
Just wanna know it's gonna be okay
Counting on somebody we can't see to land this thing
We're just people in planes

Hey, do you remember back when Your dad could still lift you then
He'd pick you up and you'd think that you were flying

You'd spread your arms and start to laugh

Do you remember how to laugh like that?
Why does that make me feel like crying?

We're just people in planes
When it comes down to it
We're side by side, on the same ride
Not a whole lotta difference

At the end of the day
Just wanna know it's gonna be okay
Counting on somebody we can't see to land this thing
Just people in planes

The girl in front of me is spilling her guts
To some lady she's never met and never gonna see again
It's being weighing for a long time on her conscience

There's seat kickers and loud talkers, honeymoon lovers
Several in the back there, looking hung over
Must be coming back from Mexico or Vegas

Just people in planes
When it comes down to it
We're side by side, on the same ride

At the end of the day
Just wanna know it's gonna be okay
Counting on somebody we can't see to land this thing
We are all waiting on somebody we can't see to land this thing
We're just people in planes, just people in planes
