Been tryin' so hard just to talk to you
Haven't heard half of what you want me to I've hurt so bad over where we've been
Don't know how not to go back there again

I know what I wanna say
Can I get it through to you now
In some other way? Like

There was this woman
And there was this man
There was this moment they had a chance
To hold on to what they had

How could they be so in love
And still never see
Now nothin' could be sadder than
This woman this woman and this man

A stranger's eyes in a lover's face
See no signs of a better time and place
Have we lost the key to an open door?
I feel the need to reach out to you even more

It's a circle we're goin' 'round
If we don't get us out from under
It's gonna take us down, see

There was this woman
And there was this man
There was this moment they had a chance
To hold on to what they had

How could they be so in love
And still never see
Now nothin' could be sadder than
This woman this woman and this man

For all we've got to lose
There's so much to gain
If we come this far and leave it behind
There's only you and me to blame

See there was this woman
And there was this man
There was this moment they had a chance
To hold on to what they had

How could they be so in love
And still never see
Yeah, we can get it back again
This woman this woman and this man
Yeah, we can get it back again
This woman this woman and this man
