I wanted to live like You, I wanted to follow Follow like the beggars walking at Your heels on the road
But still I slipped between all the cracks the world can form
Without Your watching there's a pit you fall below
And I fell below but You

You offered out Your hand to me and I grabbed a-hold
to see
The darkness of the hole I found was nothing like Your light and I'm free
When I close my eyes I fall, life so fragile, not Your love
at all
Like the water in the sea, Your love's inside my soul, now I'm free

The rays were beating down when suddenly the storm clouds
Covered up the sky and rang the fisherman's alarm
But He was silent sleeping tucked in the corner

When they woke Him up
He saw their fear and the wind and waves went calm Like You made me calm when

You offered out Your hand to me and I grabbed a-hold
to see
The darkness of the hole I found was nothing like Your
light and I'm free
When I close my eyes I fall, life so fragile, not Your love
at all
Like the water in the sea, Your love's inside my soul,
now I'm free

You offered out Your hand to me and I grabbed a-hold
to see
The darkness of the hole I found was nothing like Your
light and I'm free
When I close my eyes I fall, life so fragile, not Your love
at all
Like the water in the sea, Your love's inside my soul,

now I'm free
