Free to turn like the wind on a summer day
Heart worn, like a ring around the moon
And your eyes are ablaze, reflections of time passing by
That remind you there's much more to life than standing still

Or running from place to place in the heat of the day Just follow your heart and you'll see, there's more to life

There beyond the horizon, there's another day Far above the pain and fear you feel
The power and the peace, the greatest sensation of all There is much more to life than you'll ever know, the rise and fall

There'll always be you and me, we're moving as one
So follow your heart and you'll see, there's more to life

We all have our dreams, we all have our visions
But time after time, we're faced with decisions Which road to follow? How hard to fight?
Then you wake up and see that there's much more to

Free in acres of sky on a summer day
Fire that burns with hope inside your heart
We are never apart, reflections of time passing by That remind you there's much more to life

So just follow your heart and you'll see
If you follow your heart you'll be free
'Cause there's more to life, more to life
