Once there was a way

once there was a time when evrything was in its place and simply fine.
When no one bothered counting all the tears one cried in vain
For in the morning
more than likely one would shine again

Take me high
love

Take me high Take me back to where I've been Take me high
love

Let me fly-y love

In the skyways I once knew Take me back to the days when I was truly never alone Take me high

love

Take me home.

Once there was a hill

once there was a tree
once there was a bird who spread its wings and flew To places we imagine so much brighter than our own Yet when the summer sun and returned our feathered friends
came home.

Take me high
love

...

Take me high
love
...

Take me high
love

Take me home.
Take me high
love
Take me home.
