

Clint Black "A Change In The Air"

Visit "A Change In The Air" on MotoLyrics.com

There's something talkin' in the wind
Whispering through the trees
That feeling in my bones again
Just puts me right at ease

It takes me back to all the times
I've been here before
But crossroads, old familiar signs
Tell me, there's something more

Can't explain, there's something strange about the early fall
It's a comfort leaving me without a care
I remain but everything around me hears the call
And tonight, I feel a change in the air

The leaves are turning Soon they'll fall, there's a norther blowing in
The memories flowin'
I recall those changes in the wind

But I can never try to understand
There's nothing you can hold in your hand

Can't explain, there's something strange about the
early fall
It's a comfort leaving me without a care
I remain but everything around me hears the call
And tonight, I feel a change in the air
Yes, I'll surely feel a change in the air

Visit Clint Black page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.