When God made woman I wonder sometimes
If it was a flower he had in mind when he made her
A touch as gentle as a butterfly
A kiss so sweet, it could stop time forever
God gave man the chance to be
The kind of strength a woman needs
He was supposed to be the one to carry that load

But there she goes, baby in her arms
World on her shoulders when her day starts
Working a job that don't pay much
But she thanks God it's enough
And there she is on her own two feet
He walked out but she still got dreams
And tries to laugh when she feels like crying
Nobody'd blame her if she stopped trying
But she's got a heart that gives and gives
So you tell me who the strong one is

Tonight's the first night in a while She put on her makeup, wearing a smile, she's going out
And everything was all planned out
But the fever that the baby's got now, it's all shot down
And she gives up what she wants to do for what she has to
That's what a Momma does
And she'll be there like she always is when the sun comes up

And there she goes, baby in her arms
World on her shoulders when her day starts
Working a job that don't pay much
But she thanks God it's enough
And there she is on her own two feet
He walked out but she still got dreams
And tries to laugh when she feels like crying
Nobody'd blame her if she stopped trying
But she's got a heart that gives and gives
So you tell me who the strong one is

And there she is on her own two feet
He walked out but she still got dreams
And tries to laugh when she feels like crying
Nobody'd blame her if she stopped trying
But she's got a heart that gives and gives
So you tell me who the strong one is Yeah you tell me who the strong one is
