I said excuse me but I think that your someone
That I really really should know

For I saw my life in the green of your eyes Do you see me at all

I say will you not, talk with me a little while and see that my intentions are good For you know there's players that lie with their smile and I don't think that I ever could

Now you hide behind the rim of your spectacle Don't be scared of what you think I might want from you

Just your name, just your name I have to go know but thank you for your smile I'm searching for something to give

I can't pretend to know the way of the seasons but I know the only reason to live is love Andrea, Andrea
