Album : Dead Flowers For A Dying Lover (2002) have you ever heard of empathy what's it like to be a monster? protect and serve more like rape and burn, you have crossed the line hero to villain no control in your life so you try to control ours i sold my soul for understanding but all I got was apathy, keep on screaming to an empty sky as life keeps on passing me by you take without giving [2x] you have crossed the line no control in your life you make life that much harder to live, you make the world that much harder to turn this whole life is one big lie, never free until you die we must defend our rights to live before they are lost let the streets flow with there blood kill all the weak who preach hate save yourself now before its too late

God complex
