Mist in the grass and sleep with the spirits
Release the pain, it won't do you any good
Suck in the pollen and breathe with the raccoons
Don't hide from your own secrets

You're made of river driftwood
So pull in all your anchors
They're waiting for you downstream
They're waiting for you downstream

Did you know God is far from perfect?
There really isn't any such thing
Cause it's the work of the ugly
That highlights the beautiful
And in so doing the ugly is beautiful too

You're made of water vapor
You're solid as a cloud
But wind cannot be predicted
This change cannot be predicted

Underneath your skin, there's two feathered wings
But you'll never use them 'cause you're too scared
When you get used to such a limited reality
You've got no choice but to unlearn
Start again

You change like a volcano
Your body's just a moment
But your love will live forever
Your love will live forever
Your love will live forever

Your love will live forever
Your love will live forever

Your love will live forever
Your love will live forever
