we'll look out for you
thirty two
it's not so young here
the things you would say the things you would do it never really shows

you go slowly
you go sideways
and no-one really waits
speak softly
and quietly
in everything you say
i'm not the one who waits
for the next step you will take

are you hoping to grow
or just grow cold
and let troubles go
the life you built up
at twenty two is it what you still want to do?

in everything you say

surely time will come to an end soon but it's still on your side and everything must come to an end here but you can still leave gracefully
