Do you remember how the sun would always glow
On our Guilford(?) land when this thing began?
All the things part as we would grow
All the crazy kids we used to know
Where did they go?

Come on, come on baby
I need you right now
Come on, come on baby
I need you right now
Come on, come on, move it
I need you somehow

I got lost somewhere along the way
Oh, NYC is changing me
I know you stay awake at night to pray
That your lover man of yesterday will be OK
I can even hear you say,

Come on, come on baby
I need you right now
Come on, come on baby
I need you right now
Come on, come on, move it
I need you somehow.

My own sister was a prisoner of the ice
Should have seen her skin when I checked her in
She wants to kill herself so she can hide
Oh, flesh and blood has no price
Cause we don't live twice
That's why I need you by my side

Come on, come on baby
I need you right now
Come on, come on darling
I need you right now
Come on, come on, move it
I need you somehow.

Come on, come on baby

I need you right now
Come on, come on baby
I need you right now
Come on, come on, move it
I need you somehow.
