They called us innocent
- a growing confidence,
Something you'd only read about.

They taught us commonsense
- a bitter consequence,
Something you couldn't live without.

Look beyond your life's design,
Track the path we didn't find.

A search for something more,
Where no one's been before
- a place where the city goes to sleep.

And when they break the door
We wont be here no more,
Just shallow echoes from the deep.

Look beyond your life's design,
Track the path we didn't find.
When the sunlight pass you by,
It's like a vision in your eyes.

Look beyond your life's design,
Track the path we didn't find.
When the sunlight pass you by,
It's like a vision in your eyes.

Look beyond your life's design,
Track the path we didn't find.
When the sunlight pass you by,
It's like a vision in your eyes.
