You said we're safe to set ashore
But I don't trust it anymore.
You had my life within your grasp,
But we are just such a great contrast.

Even when you smile, you cannot hide - you're dead
inside.

Sometimes I wish you didn't know,
The walls are reminding me of you -
The structure is strong enough to hold,
But under it's solid blank and cold.

Even when you smile, you cannot hide - you're dead
inside.

Even when you smile, you cannot hide - you're dead
inside.
