

Cocoa Brovaz

"Madeleine Street"

Visit "Madeleine Street" on MotoLyrics.com

It seems such a long time ago now
And still somehow just a second away
But it feels like these old streets were different
When you and I were young

Took a walk down the street
Like a record on repeat
I just can't seem to let it all go

And spring is on the rise
There's a pale suburban sky looking down on the city below
It seems such a long time ago

Strange how the littlest details
Will bring you back with a finger snap
And if these walls could talk what would they say?
Where would they even start?

And now I'm standing on your street Tapping my feet to the rhythm of a song inside my head
Searching for the sweetness in bittersweet
And though it seems such a long time ago
Some things just carry you back you know

Visit Cocoa Brovaz page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.