"Oh Lonely Nights"

They say that evil springs from the loneliest of nights.
The light from the moon drives the demon inside.
Makes me believe in the lie.
Do you know what it's like to lose one's soul?
Another thought hits my head,
When time's blacking out and I'm knee deep in sin.
Walking the streets late at night,
The darkness now harbors my mind.

So, on the loneliest of nights,
Another soul you take can't be replaced tonight.
"Oh lonely nights," she cried.

Look into these eyes now that glow like stars,
My mind, once sane, is now falling apart.
Veins filling up with this hate of mine,
Oh when will it take me away?
I wonder if you can see
These changes that have taken hold of me.
Come take my hand just one more time,
And kiss life forever goodbye.

Say I'm fine this is all in my mind.
Say I'm fine this is all in my mind.
Say I'm fine this is all in my mind.
Say I'm fine this is all in my mind,
On the loneliest of nights.
