The worlds have now learned of the worst yet to come.
A brink of an end, a boy learns to run.
How you love, how could you, Mr. Man-of-the-Year?
Walking tall with nothing to fear.

Don't pass up this chance, oh, go tear down the walls.
No Gods will be watching, no one cares enough at all.

These words need now an ending, as they did at the start.
But I'll keep on pretending.
I won't go...

Don't cry no more, boy.
You've got the other side of your life.
So ignore, and move out the front door,
And take out your trash,
I'm no longer haunting here,
I'm not coming back.

The world must know...
My story, so long amory.
Please drive me home one last time.

Hail! [x57]
