Been to the brink of black and back
A place where there's no time
Was this all really real
Or just a dream

So scream at me, scare me to love me
At least we know we're alive
For five minutes you don't know how to feel
For five minutes you just can't deal

And we think we've done so well
So much life, there's times you've slipped and fell
So don't lie to yourself cause there's A part of me that thinks it's real

It's like a new nightmare that night
But it's the same old fucking dream

So scream at me, scare me to love me
At least we know we're alive
For five minutes you don't know how to feel
For five minutes you just can't deal

Separate forever never to return
All this pain for us to learn

Why does this come at such a cost?
Why don't we love until we've lost?

It's like a new nightmare that night
But it's the same old fucking dream

Hold me, don't leave me to die on my own

Been to the brink of black and back
Five minutes unconscious
